Safety Orientation

This measures the work history, personal experiences, and achievements related to occupational success in industries and jobs that focus on safety. This is characterised by scores derived from responses regarding safety training, adherence to rules and procedures, and other personal and professional experiences.

This candidate's responses concerning past achievements and experiences are moderately similar to those of individuals who are successful in jobs that focus on safe and effective job performance. The candidate is likely to have some experiences related to learning and performing safe working behaviours. However, he/she may lack some background which may lead to incidents and accidents.

Achievement

This component measures the tendency to set and accomplish challenging goals, while persisting in the face of significant obstacles. This trait is characterised by: working hard; taking satisfaction and pride in producing high-quality work; and being competitive.

The candidate is likely to accept moderately challenging goals, but is less likely to take on aggressive projects without specific encouragement. The candidate may persist for a time in working through obstacles, but may tend to give up in the face of significant challenges. The candidate shows an average level of competitiveness and a moderate intensity in his/her work.

Learning Potential

This is a measure of the potential to learn new information and solve problems. This competency is characterised by the ability to learn work-related tasks, policies, procedures, and to use information to form solutions to complex work situations.

The candidate has a strong ability to solve problems and make reasoned decisions. In addition, the candidate learns quickly and actively seeks to gain expertise in new areas. The candidate's experiences indicate a propensity to quickly learn new concepts, work-related tasks, processes, and procedures.

Thoroughness

This component measures the tendency to be thorough and precise in approaching work and personal activities. This trait is characterised by: being accurate; finding and correcting errors; and maintaining order in work and personal affairs.

This candidate is likely to appear to work in a haphazard and disorganised manner. The candidate does not value a thorough and precise approach to his/her work, often resulting in careless errors, failure to recognise important details, or losing track of important information. His/her work area may be disorganised and messy, adding to concerns over his/her ability to maintain efficiency in his/her work.

Teamwork

This component measures the tendency to work effectively in teams. High scorers are likely to be polite and friendly, make an effort to help others, stay calm in tense situations, communicate openly and directly with other team members, and display a willingness to help others.

The candidate is likely to be successful working in a team. The candidate generally prefers to do what is right for a group or organisation and is likely to be polite, helpful, and cooperative with others. However, he/she may occasionally lose composure in tense situations, or not communicate clearly with team members. He/she is likely to value cultivating working relationships through helping others, but may sometimes place his/her own priorities above those of the team.
