Instructions

This report is confidential and its contents are intended to assist in the prediction of an applicant's work behavior. Please note that the assessment components included in this solution report are not weighted equally. Some of the components are broad measures of behavior and some are more narrow. Competencies denoted by an asterisk (*) are measures of narrow behaviors. While these behaviors are important to the overall score, they are not weighted as heavily when compared to other components in this solution. Our research indicates this weighting best predicts job performance. Professional Potential

This is a measure of the tendency to have potential for professional success across industry type and functional area. This is characterized by scores that are derived from responses to questions regarding academic and social background, and aspirations concerning work.

The candidate's response profile concerning past achievements, social orientation, and work orientation is moderately similar to the profiles of highly effective professionals. The moderate match between the profiles suggests that the candidate is somewhat likely to be successful in a professional position.

Achievement

This component measures the tendency to set and accomplish challenging goals, while persisting in the face of significant obstacles. This trait is characterized by: working hard; taking satisfaction and pride in producing high-quality work; and being competitive.

The candidate is likely to accept moderately challenging goals, but is less likely to take on aggressive projects without specific prodding. The candidate may persist for a time in working through obstacles, but may tend to give up in the face of significant challenges. The candidate shows an average level of competitiveness and a moderate intensity in his/her work.

Willingness to Learn

This component measures the tendency to learn from experience. This trait is characterized by: being open to new experiences, seeking both positive and negative feedback, looking back on past experiences and considering alternate courses of action, and finding patterns and order in complex information.

The candidate is likely to prefer familiar tasks and experiences. The candidate is unlikely to seek out feedback on his/her performance and may react unconstructively when given negative feedback. The candidate is unlikely to learn from past experiences and thus is likely to repeat mistakes. The candidate demonstrates a below average ability to identify patterns in complex information and is unlikely to apply past experiences to future problems.

Responsibility

This component measures the tendency of a person's responsibility for his/her own actions and a commitment to performing assigned tasks. This trait is characterized by: reliability; proactive involvement in work; and a dedication to complete even the most mundane tasks.

This candidate is likely to appear unreliable, preferring to put off or avoid challenging tasks and less interesting work. As a result, the candidate may fail to plan appropriately, will likely procrastinate, and may tend to lag behind in completing difficult assignments. The candidate may become easily distracted and may struggle to work on mundane or routine tasks without direct oversight from his/her manager.
